Food Safety Supervisor Training (FSS)

NSW Food Authority approved

New legislation requires NSW food businesses in the hospitality and retail food service sector to have at least one trained Food Safety Supervisor. This applies to businesses serving food that is ready-to-eat, unpackaged and potentially hazardous.

Cost: All of our FSS courses include NSW Food Authority Certificate (value $30).
FSS in English $199.00 FSS translated - Mandarin or Cantonese $229.00

Qualifications Issued:

SITXOHS002A Follow Workplace Hygiene Procedures (Food Safety Level 1) AND SITXFSA001A Implement Food Safety Procedures (Food Safety Level 2)
both in partial completion of SIT31007 Certificate III in Hospitality

Who should do this training?

Each of the following business types must have notified their council or the NSW Food Authority details of their designated Food Safety Supervisor (FSS). The FSS is responsible for implementing safe food handling on each business premises. Businesses include: restaurants, cafes, take away shops, catering businesses, bakeries, pubs, clubs, hotels and supermarkets with hot food sales.

What participants will learn:

Participants will learn about the NSW food safety laws, how to safely handle food at work and how to prevent food poisoning. In addition, the course emphasises the legislative requirements and importance of accuracy in the daily monitoring procedures required for a successful Food Safety System.

Assessment:

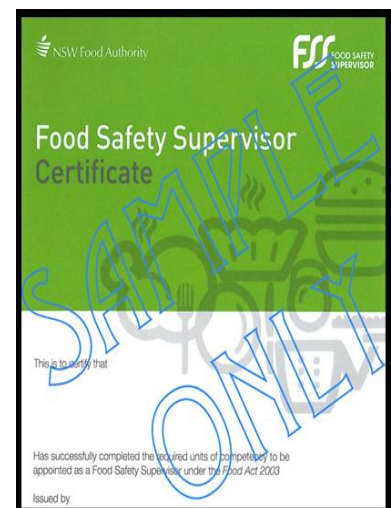

Assessment in class includes case studies, review tasks a short written assessment and a post-in assignment. Participants must also undertake a workplace evaluation to demonstrate practical skills observed in a real or simulated workplace environment. Please call CFT NSW on 9499 3737 if you require more information about the workplace evaluation requirement.

What is provided:

Comprehensive workbook, training and assessment both in-class and for self-paced assignment.
